SELECT POETRY.

WHERE IS YESTERDAY?

"Mother, some things I want to know,
Which puzzle and confuse me so.
To-day is present, as you say,
But tell me, where is yesterday?

"I did not see it as it went;
I only know how it was spent—
In play and pleasure, though in rain;
Then why won't it come back again?

"To-day the sun shines bright and clear;
But then to-morrow's drawing near.
To-day—oh, do not go away!
And vanish like dear yesterday.

"'Tis when the sun and all the light
Has gone, and darkness brings the night,
It seems to me you steal away
And change your name to yesterday.

"And will all time be just the same?
To-day—the only name remain?
And shall I always have to say,
To-morrow you'll be yesterday?

"I wonder, when we go to heaven,
If there a record will be given
Of all our thoughts and all our ways
Writ on the face of yesterdays?

"If so, I pray God grant to me
That mine a noble life shall be;
For then I'll greet with joyous gaze
The dear last face of yesterdays.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Duel Or A Wedding.

I am an ardent admirer of female beauty. I ought to have been an artist or a sculptor but I am neither. I was bookkeeper for Brown & Co., wholesale dealers in hides and tallow. Henry Bower, a young man of very lively disposition, was also employed in the same office. We boarded and roomed together.

One night Henry and I attended one of the lyceum lectures in W——. We had hardly been in the hall five minutes before my attention was fixed upon one of the ladies upon the front seat. She was a little to the right of me, but as she was talking very earnestly to the lady next to her, her face was turned toward us; and susceptible as I am, I could but be impressed with the beauty of it.

Indeed, I couldn't withdraw my gaze from the beautiful young lady before me. She had golden hair, and her bluest of eyes swum full of love and sweetness. Her nose was small and straight, and she had just the prettiest dimple among the blushes on either cheek. And then such a mouth! What red lips! teeth of pearl, flashing between the roses. Her forehead was smooth and broad, and her neck, I saw, as the fur cape dropped low on her shoulders, was white as alabaster and smooth as marble. In brief, I did not hear a word of the lecture.

A month passed without my seeing anything of the beautiful stranger. But about that time I received an invitation to visit my friend Mrs. Segard in M——. She was a widow of forty, and is the mother of a certain Miss Segard, familiarly called Clara. I knew that Mrs. Segard had tried to bring about a marriage between Clara and myself, and I believe I was not much opposed to the match. Clara was a good girl, everybody said; a very pretty brunette, with flashing black eyes and hair, but her form was short, thick and dowdish. I admire a handsome form quite as much as a handsome face. I might have married her—I really think I should, but for a little affair which happened at U——.

The morning I started for M——, Bowers accompanied me to the depot. While I was buying my ticket I noticed another gentleman come into the waiting-room. My first thought was that it was my shadow that I saw before me. He was about my height, had a light complexion like mine, and eyes of grizzly gray, and one of them turned in, just like mine. He had on a tall silk hat, tipped on one side of his sandy locks, and so did I; and furthermore, he carried in his hand a small carpet bag, with a tag marked "J. McD." tied to the straps. So did I.

I looked at him, and he returned the compliment.

'I say, sir,' said the stranger, looking down at the carpet bag that I held, and examining the tag, 'are you John McDolan, or am I?'

'My name is McDougal. I hope you are an honest man, for you see if you should happen to rob a bank, forge a note, pick a pocket, or cut somebody's jugular, I might have to suffer, perhaps swing for it.'

'I can give you reference as to my character,' I answered.

'Yes, that's very good. But, Mr. McDougal, which way are you going?'

'Down. I have bought my ticket.'

'Then I'm going up. I don't think we'd best travel together. There's the train starting now. Good-bye, Mr. McDougal, I wish you success, and for my sake don't spoil your character.'

To get to M——, which, by the way, is a rather out-of-the-way place, a small one-horse town, with one tavern, two churches and a poorhouse, I had to leave the cars at T——, and then take a private conveyance to M——, five miles distant. I could have gone by the stage, but that only leaves U—— one a day, at five o'clock in the morning.

So when the cars stopped at U—— I took my carpet-bag in hand, and got out upon the platform.

There was quite a large number of people at the station, but I took no notice of any of them, except a tall, brawny man, in a brown overcoat and slouch hat, who started for me as soon as I stepped off the cars.

I was about to move away, when the slouched hat laid his hand heavily on my shoulder.

'You're a villain!'

'Sir?'

'I repeat it—you're a villain!'

'A miserable scamp!' said a corpulent gentleman, coming forward and scowling fiercely.

Now, I felt that I was a match for the latter, but as to the other one, I didn't doubt but what he might work me up into shoestrings in less than three minutes.

'Will you explain yourselves, gentlemen?' I asked, trying to smile.

'Yes, I will,' answered the big one, putting great stress on the 'will.'

'Certainly,' growled the corpulent gentleman, with a grim smile.

'Come this way, you rascal,' said the tall one, drawing me along with him.

His companion followed us out back of the station, where we were out of sight and hearing of the rest of U——.

'Now,' said the tall gentleman, turning and confronting me, 'I'll introduce myself. I am Captain Augustus Boyton. This gentleman is my father, John Boyton. Do you know us now?'

'Well, really,' I replied, wondering in my own mind what the deuce was coming; 'really, I don't know anything more about you than what you've just told.'

'Hush!' said the captain, and he bent down and hissed in my ear, 'I am Carrie Boyton's brother.'

'And I am her father,' growled John Boyton.'

'Ah, really, do you say so!' I could not help smiling, the whole affair seemed so ludicrous. 'Give my regards to Carrie.'

'Ha! you laugh at us, do you, villain?' cried the Captain. 'Look 'ere,' said he, lowering his voice to a horrid whisper, 'look at these.'

I did look, for just then he drew from the pocket of his brown overcoat a handsome case, and opening it, displayed a pair of splendid silver-mounted dueling pistols.

'Take your choice.'

A cold tremor passed through my frame. Was I to be murdered.

'Choose quick,' urged the captain.

'Sir,' said I, in a tremulous voice, while the cold drops of perspiration stood out upon my brow, 'there mu-must be so-me mis-take. I'm bookkeeper for Brown & Co., dealers in hides and tallow. My father was Norton McDougal, my mother was Mary McDougal, my grandfather was—'

'Confound your grandfather! Either marry my sister as you promised to do a month ago, or take one of these pistols and——'

'Oh! help!'

'Dry up, you whelp,' and the captain clapped his broad hand over my mouth.

'Choose quick, youngster,' said the older Boynton.

'I won't fight,' I cried.

'Then marry my sister, or we'll drag you through the mill pond.'

It was hopeless for me to remonstrate, I could not convince the enraged father and son that I was not the villain McDolan. I dared not cry for help.

What should I do? Marry a woman whom I never saw before, whom I knew nothing about? I had little time to consider. Life was sweet to me, a ducking was disagreeable, and as to a duel I should have been a dead man at the first shot.

'Choose,' said the captain, giving me a kick with his boot.

'I'll mar-marry her.'

'All right.'

And the captain smiled grimly as he returned the pistol to the case.

The elder Mr. Boynton went after the carriage; but before I had ceased to tremble he returned.

The captain helped me in, and then seated between the chivalric father and son, I rode away. There were plenty of people on the street; but I was warned not to shout, if I knew what was healthy for me.

We rode at a smart trot for about two miles I should think; and then the captain drew rein before a large two-story white house, that stood near the road, surrounded by a high white fence. There was a gravel walk up to the front door, and several cherry trees stood in the front yard.

'Here we are,' said the captain, getting down, and motioning me to follow.

The door opened just as we reached it, and who should fall into my arms but the identical young lady who had made such a strong impression upon my heart the night of the lecture in W——.

'Oh, John! I knew you would be true,' she frantically cried; and the captain snickered as he led the way into the parlor.

But once there I succeeded in convincing Miss Boynton that I was not McDolan. Her father apologized, and so did the captain and the upshot of all was that I consented to stop over night with them, and I am quite happy to state that I passed a very pleasant evening indeed.

I learned, too that this John McDolan, for whom I had been taken, was a gentleman of wealth and leisure, with only fault, and that was promising to marry every pretty woman that he became acquainted with. Then I told my story, and both Mr. Boynton and the captain seemed pleased, and so did Carrie, especially when I offered to stand in McDolan's shoes. And—well, my dear reader, I did about a month afterward. We had a great wedding, and Clara Segard was one of the bridesmaids, and Henry Bower was groomsman. And I am very well satisfied that McDolan took the up train instead of the down.

The Duties of a Legislator.

The Lizzikin Club Committee on Judiciary, who had been asked to investigate and report on the query from Toledo, What is the duty of members of the State Legislature? reported as follows:

First. To take a free pass from every railroad in de State. De puts him in a position to vote agin railroad monopolies an' subsidies.

Second. To be absent as often an' as much as he kin, and to draw his salary wid promptness an' dispatch.

Third. To push frew bills favorin' de interests of himself an' friends.

Fourth. To spin out de sessions as long as possible in order to draw de salary.

Fifth. To let no occasion pass widout makin' a speech an' to have every one of dose speeches printed an' sent home to an anxious constituency.

The report was accepted and filed, and Brother Gardner complimented the Chairman on his research and intelligence.

The Printer.

B. F. Taylor once paid the following tribute to the toilers at the case: The printer is the adjutant of thought, and this explains the mystery of the wonderful world that can kindle a hope as no song can—that can warm a heart as no hope—that word "we," with a hand-in-hand warmpth in it, for the author and printer are engineers together, engineers indeed! When the little Corsican bombarded Cadiz at the distance of five miles, it was deemed the very triumph of engineering. But what is that range to this, whereby they bombard ages yet to be? There at the "case" he stands, and marshals into line the forces armed for the truth, clothed in immortality and English. And what can be nobler than the equipment of a thought in sterling Saxon—Saxon with the ring of spear on shield thereon, and that commissioning it when we are dead, to move gradually on to the "latest syllable of recorded time." This is to win a victory from death, for this has no dying in it. The printer is called a laborer, and the office he performs toil. Oh, it is not work, but a sublime rite that he is performing when he thus sights the engine that is to fling a worded truth in grander truth than missile e'er before described—fling into the bosom of an age yet unborn. He throws off his coat, indeed; we but wonder, the rather, that he does not put the shoes from off his feet, for the place whereon he stands is holy ground. A little song was uttered somewhere, long ago—it wandered through the twilight feebler than a star—it died upon the ear. But the printer caught it up where it was lying there in silence like a wounded bird, and he equips it anew with wings, and he sends it forth from the ark that had preserved it, and it flies forth into the future with the olive branch of peace, and around the world with melody, like the dawning of a spring morning. How the type have built up the broken arches in the bridge of time. How they render the brave utterances beyond the pilgrims audible and eloquent—hardly fettering the free spirit but moving—not a word, not a syllable lost in the whirl of the world—moving in connected paragraph and period, down the lengthening line of years. Some men find poetry, but they do not look for it as men do for nuggets of gold; they see it in nature's own handwriting, that so few know how to read, and they render it into English. Such are the poems for a twilight hour and a nook in the heart; we may lie under the trees when we read them, and watch the gloaming, and see the faces in the clouds, in the pauses; we may read them when the winter coals are glowing and the volume may slip from the forgetful hand, and still, like evening bells, the melodious thoughts will ring on.

His Solemn Warning.

"Yaas, there's money made in stocks no doubt," said the old man, as he removed his hat and ran his fingers through his gray locks, "but it's a resky bizness; it's suthin' like betting on whar lightning's going to strike, with the odds in favor of hitting the tree you stand under."

"Then you never speculate?"

"Never, I dig along on the old farm, takin' one crop with another, and pulling out stumps when I'm nothing else to do, and if I don't make any great shakes, I haven't anything to worry over. I had a party solemn warning during the coal-ile excitement, and cured me of speculatin'."

"How is that?"

"Waal, I was a widower then; wife fell down the well and was drawed out as stiff as a poker. I had a big farm, lots of stock, and was called party solid. We all got excited about ile, and all of us dug more or less holes in search of the stuff. All of a sudden a widder livin' about two miles from me found ile in a dozen places on her farm. She was a widder with a bad nose, freckles all over her face, eyes on the squint, and built up like a camel. But when she struck ile that was a different thing. Old Deacon Spooner, who was a widower, got mashed right away. Our preacher, who had lost his third wife, saw the spec. I thought it over and thought she was an angel. I guess some six or seven of us began courtin' that widder within sixteen hours after the first sign of ile. I know the procession reached from the gate to the house."

"And you got her?"

"Not much I didn't, and that's what I'm thankful for. Somehow or other I couldn't work up to the pint. That nose kinder stood in the way every time I was ready to pop the question. She acted like she wanted me, but Deacon Spooner got the best of us all and they made a hitch."

"And what?"

"Nothing, except she had dosed that farm with a barrel of ile, and thus got a husband for herself and a home for her five children. When the news came out I was so sold along the back bone that they had to kiver me up with a hoss-blanket, and since that time I haven't had the nerve to buy eggs at seven cents a dozen and hold 'em for a rise."—Wall Street Daily News.

Washington's Journey Home.

When George Washington was preparing to retire from Philadelphia to Mount Vernon, he had to travel in his own old-fashioned coach, drawn by four horses at the rate of four or five miles an hour, over the wretched roads of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, the journey occupying perhaps four or five days. An autograph letter of his written in February, 1797, affords a glimpse of the nature of some of the preparations for this somewhat formidable journey. It was addressed to an old friend in Lancaster, Penn., whose honesty and judgment in horse-flesh Washington had often tested abundantly. The text of the letter, which is written on a sheet of large letter paper, folded as in the days before envelopes were known, sealed with wax, and franked "President U. S.," is as follows:

PHILADELPHIA, 11th Feby. 1797.

Dear Sir:—The enclosed is a copy of a letter wrote to you agreeably to the date, but as it was to take its chance from the stage office, and letters by private conveyance do not always get to their destination, I trouble you with a duplicate, as well on that account as because I find my journey home requires the purchase of a third horse or mare for the draught. This third one must, in every respect, be conformable to the description of the last two, except (as it is to go with three others which I have) that it ought to be a bay, and of somewhat better figure. For the reason mentioned in my last, I should prefer greatly Mares; and if they were to be here before the first of March (that they might be exercised together and with breast-plates instead of collars) it would be desirable. At any rate, let me hear from you as soon as convenient, that I may know what to depend upon. With esteem and regard, I am, Dear Sir, Yr. obed't servant.

Mt. Matthias Slough.

Look at This and Then at That.

I.

Miss Blanche Murray is a very proper young lady. Last week she caught her little brother smoking.

"You terrible thing," she hissed, "I am going to tell father on you."

"This is only corn silk," murmured the boy penitently.

"I don't care what it is. I am going to tell on you, and see that you don't get into that beastly, horrid, degrading habit. I wouldn't have anything to do with smokers."

II.

It is evening. Miss Murray is sitting on the front stoop with Algernon. It is moonlight, and the redolent spirits of the honeysuckles and syringa are wafting bliss to their already intoxicated souls.

"Would little birdie object to my smoking a cigarette?"

"Not at all,' replied Miss Murray, "I like cigarettes. They are so fragrant and romantic. I think they are just too delicious for anything."

"Then I'll light one."

He lights a cigarette and they talk about the weather two hours and a half. —Petroleum World.

Worth Remembering.

Now that good times are again upon us, before indulging in extravagant show, it is worth remembering that no one can enjoy the pleasantest surroundings if in bad health. There are hundreds of miserable people going about to-day, with disordered stomach, liver or kidneys, or a dry, hacking cough, and one foot in the grave, when a 50 ct. bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic would do them more good than all the expensive doctors and quack medicines they have ever tried. It always makes the blood pure and rich, and will build you up and give you good health at little cost. Read of it in another column. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14-4t.

Don't Forget.

If you are suffering from any of the numerous diseases of the stomach, bowels or liver, it is your own fault if you remain ill, when you have at hand Parmelee's Blood Purifier, a sovereign remedy in all such ailments. Price, $1 per bottle; sample bottles, 15 cents. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14 4t.

As Ice disappears Under a July Sun,

So that hacking cough disappears under the use of Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It soothes and heals the membrane of the lungs, it remedies the night sweats and tightness across the chest, and is universally declared to be the best balsam extant. Those having uselessly tried many other remedies are speedily relieved by this. Sample bottles, 25 cents; large size, 50 cents. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14-4t.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of these Bitters have shown great shrewd and ability in compounding a Bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and chronicle. 14-2t.

Mrs. Barnhofft, cor. Pratt and Broadway, has been a sufferer for 12 years through Rheumatism, and has tried every remedy she could hear of, but received no benefit, until recommended to try the Eclectric Oil, she says she cannot express the satisfaction she feels at having her pain entirely removed and her Rheumatism cured. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport Pa. 14-1t.

The Post of Honor.

When vice prevails and impious men bear away, the post of honor is a private station. "ADDISON."
When Rheumatism and Neuralgia prevail, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is the best remedy. 14-1t.

To Hen Pecked Husbands.

We recommend thoroughly steam boat trips.
To those who are tired of their wives,
For 'tis better to scald to death at once,
Than to pass in hot water your lives.
And if you change your mind the best thing for scalds or burns is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14-1t.

Make a Note of This.

When you want something to attend strictly to business, and cure ear ache, sore throat, pain in the chest, quinsy, pleurisy, rheumatism, etc., get Parmelee's Universal Liniment, the greatest pain destroyer known. It is warming and penetrating. As a family liniment it meets the wants of every household. A fair trial is all that is necessary to prove the astonishing curative properties of this invaluable remedy. Sample bottles, 25 cents; large size, 50 cents. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14-4t.

Main News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, biliousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus. 14-2t.

Lovely Woman.

Hard is the heart that never felt for woman in distress,
And cold the breast that never throbbed to make her sorrow less;
For man's cares and man's delight was lovely woman born,
And curst be he, where'er [illegible], can treat her worth with scorn;
The tear it starts from woman's eye, to see you racked with Colicky pain,
And she wisely gets Spring Blossom to make you well again.
Prices: $1., 50 cents, and trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14-1t.

Newspaper Advertising.

Few persons so fully appreciate the value of newspaper advertising as those suffering from biliousness, or liver complaint, when they read the advertisement of Spring Blossom and try it; Prices: 1.00 cents, and trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport, Pa. 14-1t.

THE McKEAN MINER.

Smethport, Pa., March 3, 1881.

E. H. BARD, Editor and Proprietor.

According to the Pittsburg Leader, "there is one thing that Pennsylvania can boast of at Washington anyhow—it will have two of the handsomest men in the Senate next term. Don Cameron we all know to be a good-looking man, and from a picture of our new Senator, in the possession of Hon. Henry M. Long, which we were privileged to see to-day, we discover that Mr. Mitchell has no reason to take a back seat, even for the handsome Don."

Some say Mr. Mitchell is a lucky man. We say he is a creature of circumstances, and one of the most fortunate circumstances attending his career is that he has for a brother-in-law David Cameron, Esq., of Wellsboro, one of the shrewdest politicians in northern Pennsylvania. Four years ago Mr. Mitchell received his first nomination for Congress, and the gentlemen who represented this county in that conference unhesitatingly assert that had not Mr. Cameron been present on that occasion it is hardly among the possibilities that Mr. Mitchell's name would have been mentioned. Cameron was not a member of that convention, but "lying around loose," waiting for an opportunity to make a suggestion to the right man. The oppurtunity came, the suggestion was made, and after a short struggle Mitchell was nominated. The result of that nomination has given Mitchell four years in the lower house of Congress, and if he lives, will give him six years in the first legislative body of the civilized world.

The distinguished member from this county telegraphed the Star at Bradford, at the end of the contest for Senator, the following: "A grand victory for the bolters." The moment that tremendous thought was being flashed over the wires, the close friends of Senator Cameron were chuckling over the manner in which they had "shut the eyes" of the "bolters." Two weeks before that election took place Mr. Cameron had intimated to his friends that Mr. Mitchell would be entirely acceptable to him, and it is now an open secret that four days before the election the two gentlemen held a secret conclave of hours' duration at Mr. Cameron's private residence in the city of Washington. Another fact which has been made public is that Mr. Mitchell favored the election of Gen. Beaver, and urged the representatives of his county to vote for him. Mr. Mitchell is a stalwart of the stalwarts, a Republican who never does things to please his opponents. It was his devotion to the Republican party that caused him to oppose the nomination of Grant. He believed with many thousands of his party that that nomination would have proven fatal to the Republican organization, while many other thousands felt that it would have strengthened the party. Among those who sympathized with him at that time was James McManes of Philadelphia, the boss of bosses. Mr. Mitchell is not a bolter either by instinct or education. If his past record is a clue to his future, he will always be found as true to the Republican organization as the needle is to the pole.

DEATH OF HON. MATTHEW H. CARPENTER.

On Thursday of last week, at 9.30 a. m., at his residence in the city of Washington, Hon. Matt. H. Carpenter, the great lawyer and distinguished Senator from Wisconsin, died of Bright's disease of the kidneys. Mr. Carpenter was one of the most brilliant men of the legal profession of this country, and the peer in ability of any of his colleagues in the United States Senate. He was born in Moretown, Vermont, in 1824. He was a bright boy and through the influence of a distinguished lawyer of that State was appointed, when quite young to the West Point Military Academy. He remained at that institution only two years, and then entered the law office of that wonderful lawyer, Hon. Rufus Choate, in Boston. After being admitted to the bar he removed to Wisconsin, settling in the town of Beloit, where he soon became famous as a lawyer.

Mr. Carpenter had been reared and educated in the strictest school of old-fashioned Democracy and he adhered to that faith. He was elected District Attorney of his county, although the Whigs were in a majority and his Democracy was pronounced. In 1860, his fame as a lawyer having become as wide as the limits of his State, he removed to Milwaukee, its chief city, where he had his residence down to the time of his death. The firing of the first shot on Fort Sumpter made him a loyalist, and, although never an advanced Republican, he ever afterwards sided with that party and supported its measures. His fame as a lawyer now became national and during the war he was often the trusted legal adviser of the Government, and especially of Secretary Stanton. In 1868 he made a masterly argument before the Supreme Court in favor of the constitutionality of the Reconstruction Acts of Congress, a service which was rewarded the following year by his election to the Senate from Wisconsin. During the latter part of his term he was President pro tem. and distinguished himself by the clearness of his decisions and his ever-ready knowledge of the Constitution and of Parliamentary practice. In 1875 he was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated by a coalition of Democrats with the Independent Republicans, which sent Angus Cameron in his stead. In 1879 he was again elected a member of the Senate from Wisconsin and has since held his seat in that body, although not taking the great part his abilities entitled him to.

O. B. & W. EXTENSION.

It has been pretty generally understood that the line on the West Branch of the Tuna would be adopted in extending the Olean, Bradford & Warren Railway to Warren. But from information which we consider entirely reliable this route is already abandoned. The one which will undoubtedly be taken is up the East Branch to Shepard's Run, up this last stream to Marshburg, thence via Chappel Fork and the Kinzua Creek to the Allegheny River. At the river they strike the line of the new road from Warren to Salamanca. If satisfactory business arrangements can be made between the two companies the O. B. & W. will be built no farther than to Kinzua village.

THE INAUGURATION.

To-morrow Gen. James A. Garfield will be inaugurated President of the United States. The civic display which will take place in Washington promises to be the grandest ever seen on the continent. The military pageant will be the finest probably, of any that has been witnessed since the close of the war. It is expected that there will be seven thousand troops in line from Pennsylvania alone. It is thought that the Inaugural address will be brief. If so we shall publish it entire in our next issue. That Gen. Garfield will make a model President, is the belief of the entire body of his supporters, and that his administration of the affairs of the government will redound with great credit not only to himself but to the Republican party of the nation will not be doubted by the intelligent portion of his political opponents.

GEN. CAMERON IN AN ORANGE GROVE.

The venerable statesman, Gen. Simon Cameron, is now making a tour through the Southern States and the West India Islands. He is accompanied by his old friend Col. James Duffey, of Lancaster County and a Mr. Burr, a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. The letters of this correspondent are exceedingly interesting reading. In a letter from Florida, dated Feb'y, 10th, he gives a most graphic description of an orange grove which was visited by the tourists, a description which we believe our readers will justify us in re producing. It is as follows:

General Cameron was taken yesterday by ex-Senator Yulee, a friend and former associate who represented Florida in the Senate thirty-five years ago, to see the largest orange grove in the world. This was the first time they had met since Mr. Yulee left the Senate for the South in 1861, and the renewal of the friendship between the two has been one of the pleasing incidents of the stay in Florida. Colonel Duffy and myself were invited to accompany the party and did so. We traveled one hundred miles into the interior over a railroad controlled by Mr. Yulee and through the most interesting section of the State I have yet visited. We brought up about noon at a beautiful sheet of water known as the "Orange Lake." Long before we reached the great grove toward which we were tending there were patches of orange trees to be seen on every side, many of them with the golden fruit still hanging to the branches. Beautiful flowers bloomed in the black muck and early vegetables were just springing up. A little later the train dropped us in the midst of seventy-five thousand orange trees, covering over four hundred acres of ground.

A perfect wilderness of orange trees, apparently not cultivated with care, certainly not planted regularly but just as nature had sown the wild seed. The wild luxuriance of nature had, however, been curbed by man, who in pursuit of wealth had turned vinegar into honey, and by grafting on the sour trees the finer sweet varieties had snatched from the wilderness an income of over $40,000 a year. General Cameron rambled with us over the place, all of us plucking the golden fruit ad lib. and imagining ourselves in the veritable Garden of Eden—earth, air and sky, soft, balmy and ethereal, combinings to fix the illusion, and were only brought back to a realization that we were fifty miles from our hotel by an exclamation from one of our party, "By Jove, we're lost!" This fact soon become apparent to us all, and, just think of it, you who are bound by bands of thick-ribbed ice, lost in an orange grove in Florida. General Cameron enjoyed the joke and busied himself eating the fruit plucked with his own hands.

Many of the trees were laden with fruit of immense size and beautiful color, although much of the crop had been gathered. Lemons of immense size growing upon small trees now and then dotted the orange orchard. After an hour spent in looking over the grove, we one by one found our way back to the packing-house, where the superintendent told us that 12,000 boxes of oranges had been shipped this season from one-half of the grove over which we had been rambling; that means 1,800,000 oranges, for which the owner had been offered $25,000 while the fruit was on the trees.

"How many years does it take for an orange grove to come into bearing?" I asked, the Superintendent? Eight years from the seed and about five if grafted or budded on to the wild fruit." "That is, I mean to say, they will bear in eight years from the seed and in five years from the graft. They constantly grow better and bear more oranges every year. No man can tell how long the tree will be useful; certainly more than a hundred years," he added.

People in Florida are naturally as enthusiastic over orange culture as miners are who find rich placers, and they tell almost as marvelous stories. You hear them talk about trees upon which grow from three to four thousand oranges; but there is a great deal of fancy in this statement, and the truth is marvelous enough.

The Popular Vote For President.

[From the Baltimore American.]

In your paper of this date you follow the Cincinnati Enquirer in giving to General Hancock a popular majority of 8,166. These figures give the totals:

General Garfield	4,418,384
General Hancock	4,434,690
Mr. Weaver	313,893
Neal Dow	10,791
Scattering	3,285
Total	9,160,218

These are said to be the "latest," including "cooked-up returns" from South Carolina and Louisiana. I do not concur in this statement of the result. I took unusual pains to get the correct result for the The New York Tribune Almanac for 1881, and I obtained a larger popular vote than the above table shows, and with a different distribution of the items composing it. Since that publication Nevada has come to hand officially, and Texas. The changes in these, with a revision of figures in Louisiana, give a net gain to General Garfield of 3,300 votes and a net loss to General Hancock of 1,703. Making these corrections, the totals stand, as between Generals Garfield and Hancock, as follows:

General Garfield	4,454,421
General Hancock	4,446,186
Garfield's plurality	8,235

The total vote previously quoted is increased, by the later returns, by 1,796 votes, and it reaches an aggregate of 9,220,848. In making up these tables, General Garfield is credited with all the votes cast for the two Garfield electoral tickets in Louisiana, as General Hancock is credited with all those cast for the two Hancock electoral tickets in Virginia, and with all those cast for the "fusion" electoral ticket in Maine. Conceding everything to General Hancock which can be claimed for him, he is in a minority of over 8,000 votes.

Many of the errors of current tables have arisen from a failure to correct by the official returns from the more distant States (conspicuously Nevada, Tennessee and Texas), and by failing to construct the tables upon the manifestly fair principle of awarding to each candidate the actual vote cast by his party in the respective States. Very respectfully,

Edward McPherson.

General Hancock.

New York, February 24.—General Hancock was subjected to an interview to-day regarding his intended visit to Washington the fourth of March.

Why have you decided to attend President Garfield's inauguration?

I do not think it would be proper for me to express my political views regarding Garfield or the republican party at this time, as I do not wish to be drawn into a discussion or controversy of any kind, but I will say I have received a polite and formal invitation to be present at the inaugural ceremonies and I have acted in accordance with my sense of what is proper in accepting the invitation and in promising to be present on the occasion.

Will you be the guest of the inaugural committee?

I am asked to become the guest of the chairman of the committee and he has pressed me to take Mrs. Hancock with me and become an inmate of his own private residence in Washington, but I have engaged rooms at Wormly's hotel.

It is because the chairman of the committee is a prominent republican and you don't wish to accept his personal hospitality?

Oh, no, I have no such reasons for my action. A great many of my political, military and personal friends will, no doubt, visit me while at Washington, and I can receive them much better in my own rooms at the hotel than in another man's private residence. I would feel more free in a hotel, and so would my friends. Another good reason is the fact I would not feel it fair to ask a private host to entertain guests and friends.

Will you attend in a military capacity or merely as a citizen of the United States?

As to that I cannot exactly say. Some time ago General Sherman requested my presence in Washington on the fourth of March.

Will you attend the grand ball in the evening?

No, sir; but I will be present during the ceremonies in the senate chamber.

Will you appear in the procession?

It is not my intention to parade myself on inauguration day by virtue of my official position as chief officer of the military division of the Atlantic. I will be in reality in command over all the troops in Washington on the fourth of March; the military barracks of that city are virtually under my charge.

What is your personal opinion of the election of General Garfield as President of the United States?

In regard to General Garfield I will say that a democratic senate and house of representatives have declared him duly elected president of the United States, and such being the case, it is proper that any person who is a resident of the United States, should attend the inauguration exercises. Some persons have doubted the wisdom of my appearance in Washington the 4th of March and others say there is no harm in my attending. It seems right to me of course. In this matter the merits or demerits of the different political parties are not in question. General Garfield is to occupy the Presidential chair for the next four years and there can be no harm in seeing and hearing him when he takes the oath of his high office. I say this without any reference to parties or disputed political questions.

If Dakota is divided and a new territory called Pembina is formed from the part cut off, the remark once made by a pioneer in that region, concerning its attractions of climate, will be of interest. A tourist who was making a hurried trip came upon the pioneer, who was chopping upon the prostrate trunk of a tree. Several attempts were made to extract information from him, but he continued his work without vouchsafing the slightest response. Finally the tourist asked something about the climate, when the chopper, striking a particularly vigorous blow, growled out: "Well, all I've got to say is, damn a country where it's nine months winter and three months late in the fall!"—Tribune.

Simon Cameron's Last Talk With Jefferson Davis.

"I remember one morning during the exciting debates in the Senate prior to the retirement of the southern Senators that Jeff Davis, with whom I had been on the most intimate terms for a long time, invited me to breakfast to talk over the question at issue and to ask me if I would not use my influence in behalf of a peaceful separation. The talk between us while at breakfast, which lasted some time, was quite animated, but all in good temper, but toward its conclusion it became very warm. Mr. Davis was then, as I suppose he is now, a man of ungovernable will, and, of course, took positive ground that the States had a right to secede and would do so unless their demands were acceded to. I denied this right, and said that any attempt on their part to leave the Union would result in war. Both of us were stubborn upon the diverse positions taken. He got quite excited, and as I was leaving said angrily:

"'Cameron, if there is any attempt on the part of the North to coerce us, and a war between the States results, I will draw a line through the country at the Potomac river. No,' he added immediately, 'I will draw the line at the Susquehanna, and your house shall be my headquarters.' I answered much in the same temper: 'You will never be permitted to break up the Union, and if you try it, war will be the result, you will be soundly thrashed, and slavery in this country will be doomed when the first gun is fired.' History has verified the prediction. Davis soon after left the Senate, and I have never seen him since."—Charleston Letter to the Philadelphia Press.

Senator-elect Mitchell is a powerful opponent to the abuses of the so-called transportation discrimination, from which so many parts of the country have suffered so severely. He will enter the Senate with a record on this subject which will at once give him national reputation, as this is the great subject with which the government must next grapple.—Harrisburgh Telegraph.

A Lecture to Young Men On The Loss of

MANHOOD

A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment, and Radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, induced by self-abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book," etc.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self-abuse may be effectually removed without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

THE McKEAN MINER.

Smethport, Pa., March 3, 1881.

HERE AND HEREABOUTS.

—Next week is license week, and it will be a pretty busy one, too.

—The attendance at court is large this week. Judge Wilson is presiding.

—Supt. S. V. Godden and wife are happy over the arrival of a 9½ pound boy.

—Mrs. J. H. Farquharson, of Allegany, N. Y., is visiting friends in Smethport.

—Joe Reilly has one of the best stocked cigar stores in the county. He also has a fine line of stationery.

—Col. J. A. Ege, of Bradford, is attending court. Of course he paid his respects to the MINER office.

—Mr. J. H. Monroe, business manager of the Bradford Sunday News, paid Smethport a visit this week.

—A thorough and safe remedy is Dr. Mettaur's Headache and Dyspepsia Pills. Sold by all Druggist. Price 25 cents. 14-4t

—Quite a number of Smethport people went to Bradford on Saturday evening last to attend Haverly's minstrel show.

—Weston, of Kane, Lewis of Duke Center, and many other lawyers attending court, made us pleasant calls this week.

—The Barry's played in the Opera House two or three nights this week. It was a good show but very poorly patronized.

—Teams wanted for bark hauling, either by the cord or by the day at the Brookston Tannery, Brookston, Forrest Co., Penn. 9-6t.

—Nothing so good for Headache and Dyspepsia as Dr. Mettaur's Headache and Dyspepsia Pills. Price 25 cents. All Druggists sell them. 14-4t

—Dr. Jas. Otto, a rising young physician of Port Allegany, called to see us one day this week. Jim. is prospering, a fact which we are glad to note.

—Mr. Thomas Carroll has formed a partnership with Dr. Freeman for the purpose of practicing medicine. "Tom" is an ambitious young man and deserving of success.

—A brakeman on the McKean road had the misfortune of having an arm crushed so badly while coupling cars at Clermont, on Tuesday, as to render amputation necessary.

—Jerry Connor, of Farmer's Valley was buried to-day. He was one of the old residents of this vicinity, and respected by all as a man of the strictest honor and of the purest motives.

—J. D. Mandeville will be in Smethport on or about the 14th or 15th of March for the purpose of insuring the property of parties desiring the same. In the meantime any word or communication may be left at this office.

—Andy Perry lost his pocket book a week or so ago. In it was $300. It was found a few days ago—we mean the book—near the railroad track west of Bulls' mill. When found the book was wide open and contained no money.

—Stone of the Star, Hughes of the Reporter, Lester of the Sunday News, Kern of the Era, and the genial A. B. Mann, of the Potter Journal looked in upon us this week. Our latch-string is ever out gentlemen, and you are cordially invited to pull it.

—Some of the boys had "close calls" this week. With a pledge of better conduct we are begged to publish no names. On this account we refrain from doing so, but shall hold ourselves in readiness to give full particulars upon the repetition of future disreputable acts.

—Monday evening the third lecture, under the auspices of the Smethport Lecture Association, occurs at the Opera House. Ex-Gov. Cumback of Indiana tells what he knows about "Invisible some People." The lecture is very highly commented upon by the press wherever he has delivered it.

—The report is current that the Coudersport bank robbery will be traced to one of the employee's named Doerner. The story goes that he was short in his accounts $900 or thereabouts, and that he tied the bag over his own head and chucked himself in the vault, where he was found suffer ing (?) terribly.—Ex.

—Mr. A. H. Pierce has moved into his new hotel on Water street and is prepared to accommodate all who choose to patronize him. It is a well arranged house and large enough to meet the demands of the public. Mr. Pierce knows how to take care of his friends, and those who stop with him will not lack for attention.

—We learn that the mail agent has been taken off the McKean road. Why this is done we are unable to learn, but we are certain it cannot be on account of any dissatisfaction with the faithful agent. We suspect the Government has become poor again and cannot afford the expense. The same thing occurred two or three years ago.

—Geo. R. Allen, wife and children, of Syracuse, made Smethport a flying visit on Friday last. They went from here to Bradford to visit the family of Hon. W. W. Brown. George looks somewhat older than he did some twenty years ago when he formally introduced us to the employees of the MINER office as the newly installed devil of the concern, yet he seems about as active as then. His genial face brings back to mind pleasant recollections, and we hope he and his will live to make many an annual visit to their old home.

BOLD ROBBERY.

THE STORE OF H. W. RUBIN ENTERED AND HIS SAFE BROKEN OPEN AND ROBBED OF $1,200 WORTH OF JEWELRY.

Our usually quiet village was aroused from her slumbers on Tuesday evening by a report circulated quite rapidly upon the streets that H. W. Rubin's jewelry store had been robbed, and upon investigation it was found to be too true. Mr. Rubin left the store shortly after nine o'clock and Mr. Stewart, an employee who sleeps in the store went there from his home at half-past ten, his usual time for going in to retire, and discovered one of the rear windows open, and the safe had been broken into and the contents carried away. The combination knob of the safe had been broken off with a hammer and the plate removed and the lock forced out of place. It was evidently the work of experienced hands, and ones that knew how to do the work up quick.

Among the articles stolen were two gentlemen's gold watches, eight silver watches and between forty and fifty watches left there for repairs—some of which were quite valuable. Also a number of solid and plated watch chains numerous sets of jewelry, cameo and onyx rings, sleeve buttons, etc. In their hurry to get away the thieves dropped a couple of ladies' gold watches which were found on the floor. Mr. Rubin estimates his loss at about $1,200. It was one of the most daring burglaries that has occurred in this country, and evidently the rascals had the store "spotted" for some time and knew pretty well the hour Mr. Stewart was in the habit of returning. The parties were tracked from the store around the side to the walk and there all traces were lost.

The Superintendency.

To the Editor of the Miner.

Mindful of the Scriptural injunction, "Let not thine own words praise thee but rather the lips of another," it is not my purpose to set forth in the public press or elsewhere, any achievements of my own. There are not wanting reputable citizens of the county who have known me many years; and a candidate must be tested by the judgment of others, not by his opinion of himself.

It has come to my knowledge that certain interested persons are circulating the report that I do not reside in the county, am not identified with its interests,—in a word, that I am a carpetbagger from New York and ineligible to to the office of County Superintendent. Such reports are untrue, foreign to the qualifications of a school officer, and can have no power to injure among sensible men in a county that has increased more than four-fold in wealth and population within a few years. I will submit a copy of a letter to the Department together with the reply for the information of those Directors who may be unacquainted with the facts:

SMETHPORT, PA., Feb. 23, 1881.

Wm. D. Lindsey, Deputy State Superintendent, Harrisburg, Pa.

DEAR SIR:—I am a native of New York State. For the last seven months have been a real estate owner, tax payer and bona fide resident of Smethport. Have resided in the State before, but do not claim to be an elector. I am a candidate for county superintendent and wish to know whether, under the laws of the State, I am eligible.

I dislike to trouble you again, but as you say a superintendent need not have been a resident of the county previous to election, it is suggested that the State may not be included in the opinion.

Very truly,
H. B. FARMER.

DEP'T OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
HARRISBURG, Feb. 26, 1881.

H. B. Farmer, Smethport, Pa.:

DEAR SIR:—In the Pennsylvania School Journal for March, 1878, you will find the following, viz: It has been decided by the Attorney General, in which opinion the Superintendent of Public Instruction concurs, that under the new constitution school directors can elect as county, city or borough superintendent, any person they may select, whether citizens of the county in which they are elected or otherwise. In other words, at the forthcoming election of superintendents, the directors can elect the best man, whether they find him within the county or without its limits. They may even bring him from another State or county, if they see proper.

Yours, &c.,
WM. D. LINDSEY,
Deputy State Sup't.

OIL NEWS.

WHAT'S GOING ON OVER AT CORYDON.

CORYDON, March 1, 1881.

To the Editor of the Miner:

We are having another test of our territory, there being two rigs drilling. No. 1 is down between seven and eight hundred feet. The company that is putting these wells down are working in hard luck. They are now using the third boiler since the rig was commenced and this one was considerably damaged, having a hole broke in it while unloading it from the cars. No. 1 well is located near the road, six and one-half miles from the river. Smith & Co. are the operators.

No. 2 is situated one-half mile west of No. 1, and they have been drilling since last week. McIntyre & Co. are the operators.

Will it Pay?

Next Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church a sermon or lecture by its Pastor. Subject: "Intemperance, or Will it Pay?" Everybody—friend or foe—invited to come and hear it. Seats free. Services in the morning at 11 o'clock. Subject: "Gideon."

Lost.

A lady's shawl, black and white, checked. Lost probably between Haskill's store and Colegrove. The finder will please leave same at the MINER office.

IN MEMORIAM.

To Mrs. Elizabeth Specht's many friends and relatives, by whom she was universally loved and esteemed, have come the sad tidings, "She is dead!"

She was born September 30, 1822, in Drederstaat in the Province of Hanover, Germany.

After a long and tedious voyage across the ocean with her brother, Christopher Heinemann, and his family, reached this country in August, 1851. In 1852 she attended school in Buffalo, N. Y., where, although a stranger in a strange land, surrounded by many difficulties and unacquainted with the English language, she made rapid progress and succeeded in obtaining a good English education. On December 4, 1854, she was married to William Specht, with whom she was acquainted in the Fatherland, he having lived in the same place where she was born and had grown to womanhood, and with whom she has since lived in honor, peace, and prosperity; being to him a help-meet in the truest and best sense of the word. Sharing his struggles and hardships, his joys and sorrows, his labors and his success. He was wont to say, when speaking of the competence which was theirs: "My wife has worked with me, what I have she helped me to earn."

Hers was a life of busy usefulness, a living, practical example of patience, industry and perseverance. She was a model of endurance to the weak and faltering, of courage to the faint hearted and of fortitude to the suffering and complaining.

In later years she was deprived of the amount of health and strength allotted to most people. I once heard her say: "I hardly feel strong enough to rise and dress myself in the morning." And yet she continued to labor side by side with her husband. Her business did not lag. Every order was so promptly filled, every promise so faithfully kept that we could hardly realize that she was not in her full strength and vigor. What a rebuke to the idle and careless! what an incentive to the discouraged and disparaging! She was not only a thoughtful, loving wife, but a fond, devoted mother to the son and daughter and little grandchild with whom they were blessed, and with all her labors and conscientious discharge of many duties, she ever found time to extend the hand of a kind hospitality to both friend and stranger. Her home, built up by her own and her husband's industry, rendered so pleasant and attractive by their taste and intelligence, by her love of the beautiful in art and nature, ever stood with open doors to the numerous relatives and acquaintances who were often entertained there. And many strangers will think of her with heartfelt gratitude, and will rise up and call her blessed for kind regards shown them, for cheerful and bounteous entertainment proffered them.

During her illness, and sometime before her death, she became united with the Episcopal church of Smethport. What her previous church connections or relations were I do not know, but this I do know, that her life was a religion unto itself, her faith, truth and uprightness in all things, her creed.—"Do unto others as you would have them do to you."

While we regret that she could not have lived many years to have enjoyed the beautiful home, the earthly comforts, honor and happiness which she so well earned, we know that her weary pain-worn body is at rest, and that she has gone to a brighter, more beautiful home, to a greater reward. She died, after a long and painful sickness, on the morning of February 25th, 1881.

The funeral services were conducted at her residence, where was gathered a large concourse of mourning friends, according to the rites of the Episcopal church, by Rev. J. H. McCandless, on Sunday, the 27th.

We shall sadly miss her in all our varied walks of life, but we feel that the loss is not to her but to us who must take up our burdens and go on without her loving presence, without her cheerful encouragement, her daily precept and example.

ONE WHO KNEW AND LOVED HER.

DE FOREST WELD'S CRASH.

HIS LIABILITIES PLACED AT HALF A MILLION DOLLARS—HE MAKES AN ASSIGNMENT FOR PREFERRED CREDITORS.

Sheriff Sartwell at an early hour yesterday morning placed a bill conspicuously on the door of the People's Store, this city, advertising the entire stock to be sold Tuesday, March 8, as the property of De Forest Weld at the suit of H. B. Claflin and others. During the day $40,000 additional judgments were entered against Mr. Weld at Smethport, making the total amount of judgments resting against him in this county $60,800. Tuesday Mr. Weld made an assignment in Jamestown, N.Y., to L. B. Warner, at that place, of dry goods and property, preferring his endorsers to his creditors. Mr. Weld's endorsers reside principally in Jamestown, N. Y. It is an easy question of law as to whether Mr. Weld can by assignment determine priority of claims against his property in Bradford, Warren, Meadville and Titusville. In this respect there is a marked difference between the law of New York and Pennsylvania. H. B. Claflin & Co. and E. S. Jaffrey & Co., of New York city, are the principal creditors. It is estimated from the best source that Mr. Weld's liabilities will reach about $500,000. As yet no reliable information as to his assets has been obtained, however, it is said that Mr. Weld thinks that his store properties in the two States will realize about $300,000. In addition he has some real estate and a number of accounts due that will swell the amount about $100,000 more. The matter of Mr. Weld's failure was the topic of conversation and some lively speculation in all the towns and cities of Northwestern Pennsylvania and Southwestern New York yesterday.—Era of Tuesday.

Donation Visit.

The friends of Rev. W. C. Waite will give him a donation at Kittredge Opera House on Tuesday evening, March 8th. A good time will be had and all are cordially invited to be present and make the gathering interesting and enjoyable.

Notice.

Any one desiring to purchase heavy work horses will do well to apply for them at the Scott House, Port Allegany. 6-8 mos.

Pearls of Thought.

Men tire themselves in pursuit of rest.

Jealousy is a secret avowal of our inferiority.

They are never alone that are accompanied by noble thoughts.

A happy jest often gives birth to another; but the child is seldom worth the mother.

A beautiful woman with the qualities of a noble man is the most perfect thing in nature.

The greatest man living may stand in need of the meanest, as much as the meanest does of him.

Great men undertake great things because they are great, and fools because they think them easy.

Every man has three characters; that which he exhibits, that which he has and that which he thinks he has.

The greater part of men have no opinion, still fewer have an opinion of their own, well reflected and founded upon reason.

Apparent evil is but an ante-chamber to higher bliss, as every sunset is but veiled by night, and will soon show itself again as the red dawn of a new day.

Friendship supplies the place of everything to those who know how to make the right use of it; it makes your prosperity more happy; your adversity more easy.

There is a great difference between what an ambitious man is and what he aspires to be—as there is also between what a vain man thinks himself and what he is.

Every year of our lives we grow more convinced that it is the wisest and best to fix our attention on the beautiful and the good, and dwell as little as possible on the evil and the false.

Many persons consider themselves friendly when they are only officious; they counsel not so much that you may become wise, as that they may be known as teachers of wisdom.

We should no more lament that we have grown old than the husbandman, when the bloom and fragrance of spring have passed away, should lament that summer or autumn has come.

Midnight in the Sanctum.

It was past midnight and the lights in the Hawkeye sanctum shone brightly on the brave men of the staff there assembled. The news editor reached over for the brush to fasten a paragraph down over its credit.

"It paste to be honest," he murmured.

"Especially when you are accessory to the act," said the city editor.

"But this," said the editor, lifting the old stove polish cut from a pile of loose manuscript, "is what gives the paper weight."

"And this," said the associate, holding an original poem on "winter" in the gas jet, "lends it an airy lightness."

"Nary lightnessitt is," said the news editor, "for there's pounds and pounds of it in the drawer."

"Take care of the pounds," said the city editor, "and the pencil take care of itself."

"I should re-mark," said the proof reader, as he called for a revise.

"And I should dollar," said the business manager, coming in with a hat full of manuscript.

"Now you're shoutin'" sang the chorus, "say your piece."

"I have come to cooperate with you," said the business manager. "See? these are the new adse'."

"Put a pica head on him," said the foreman.

And longer had they sung, but with a frown the funny man impatient rose, and remarking that this was a noose paper, joked off all further debate and the forms went down.

The Dog and the Toper.

There is a dog at Brighton, England—a remarkable dog—a large maltese. Sometimes that dog has a purple body, with a yellow head and a green tail; sometimes he is a scarlet and puce. He is a kind of a rainbow dog. The fact is, he belongs to a dyer in the town, and being naturally white he takes any other color easily, and now he gets a dip in one vat and now in another, and he forms a sort of canine advertisement. It is fun to see this dog, who is quite unconscious of his distinguished condition, come up to other dogs, wagging his yellow head and green tail, and the way that those dogs, after regarding him out of the corners of their eyes for a minute tuck their tails between their legs and "scoot" is a caution. Some time ago a man, who had been occasionally a victim of the "old complaint," was going down to Brighton for the race week in great health and spirits. When driving from the station he suddenly came upon this dog. "Hello, hey! What's that? Hey! hey! what! a purple dog with a green tail! Oh, lor! oh, jor! got 'em again!" and he turned round and went back to London, firmly persuaded that he was again a victim to D. T.

A story comes from Boston that a woman who took her pail to be filled at a soup house in that city was asked how many she had in her family, and replied: "Six—my husband, two dogs and two cats, and please don't put so much pepper in the soup, the dogs don't like it.

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

An advertiser who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $250 in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST.

IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST.

IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST. When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is [illegible]. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are [illegible]. The list includes [illegible] newspapers of which [illegible] are issued Daily and [illegible] Weekly. MISCELLANEOUS.

The leading Scientists of to-day agree that most diseases are caused by disordered Kidneys or Liver. If, therefore, the Kidneys and Liver are kept in perfect order, perfect health will be the result. This truth has only been known a short time and for years people suffered great agony without being able to find relief. The discovery of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure marks a new era in the treatment of these troubles. Made from a simple tropical leaf of rare value, it contains just the elements necessary to nourish and invigorate both of these great organs, and safely restore and keep them in order. It is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness—Gravel—Fever, Ague—Malarial Fever, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs.

It is an excellent and safe remedy for females during Pregnancy. It will control Menstruation and is invaluable for Leucorrhoea or Falling of the Womb.

As a Blood Purifier it is unequaled, for it cures the organs that make the blood.
